THE TRUTH SOMETIMES NOT FOUND OUT UNTIL TOO LATE.

SUCH is often the case in regard to persons taking medicine. They are induced by plausible reasoning, false representation and doctrines, to employ medicines that, so far from being adapted to their disease or sickness, absolutely increase the symptoms, destroy the constitution, rack the whole system, and bring on a gradual decline, terminating in death; previous to the fatal termination, however, (but unfortunately too late), the truth is found out that the pills, mixtures, &c. they have been taking were composed of the most powerful and dangerous ingredients, prepared too by persons knowing nothing of disease or the nature of the medicines they recommend, depending altogether upon the "general doctrine of such impostors," that their medicines will "kill or cure." Be advised, then, if you find it necessary to take some medicine for purifying the blood and cleansing the bowels, to take nothing but Dr. Leidy's justly and deservedly celebrated SARSAPARILLA BLOOD PILLS, the only pills containing Sarsaparilla in their composition—the safest and best as well as the most effectual that can be taken.
Old and young, at all times, without regard to weather, may take them without fear of taking cold, and without restraint from occupation or usual course of living. Upwards of 1,000 certificates have been published, various times, of their efficacy. More than 100,000 boxes have been sold in Philadelphia in twelve months. These facts go to prove their value, or so many never would be sold in so short a time, in a place where they are manufactured; this, however, arises in part from the fact that the manufacturer of them (Dr. Leidy) is well known at home as a regular physician and apothecary, knowing the true nature of diseases and of the medicines he recommends, attested by the most celebrated physicians, among whom are Dr. Nathaniel Chapman, Dr. Wm. Gibson, Dr. W. E. Horner, Dr. Samuel Jackson, Dr. Robert Hare, Dr. P. S. Physic, Dr. T. C. James, Dr. W. P. Dewees, Dr. J. Redman Cox, Rev. W. H. Delancy, Robert Adrian, L.D., &c. &c.

Orders for Dr. Leidy's BLOOD PILLS are daily received from the North, South, East, and West, and the most flattering accounts, from every direction, of their unparalleled success. A single box (25 cents) may save as many dollars, if taken in time, instead of the dangerous medicines now forced on the public, and by taking which persons so often find it necessary at last to take Dr. Leidy's Blood Pills, to counteract their injurious consequences.
They are prepared only, and sold Wholesale and Retail, at Dr. Leidy's Health Emporium, No. 191, North Second street, below Vine street, Philadelphia.

Agent for the District.

MISCELLANEOUS.

ANSWER TO JOHN ANDERSON MY JO!

BY MRS. CRAWFORD.

Jean Anderson, my ain Jean,
Ye've been a leal guid wife;
Ye've mair than shared my pain, Jean,
Ye've been my joy through life;
I lo'd ye in ye're youth, Jean,
Wi' bonny snooded brow;
But maun I tell the truth, Jean,
I lo'e ye better now.

O! they were pleasant times, Jean,
When first I try'd thee;
They come like holy chimes, Jean,
O' Sabbath bells to me;
But sweeter to my heart, Jean,
Than a' the past can prove,
The hope that when we part, Jean,
Our hearts shall meet above.

I've been a man o' toil, Jean,
And aye obliged to roam;
But still ye had a smile, Jean,
And canny welcome home;
Our hearth was aye a light, Jean,
The kail pot on the fire,
When I cam back at night, Jean,
I found my heart's desire.

Our bairns hae bred some cares, Jean,
But thanks to thee, my Jo,
They've brought not our gray hairs, Jean,
Wi' shame or sorrow low;
And when at last our bed, Jean,
Beside the kirk maun be,
They'll honor us when dead, Jean,
And that's enough for me.

AN INDIAN DUEL.

Wingeneud waited until the speech of his antagonist had been translated to them, when he replied, with unmoved composure, "If the Crow warriors require better witness than words, it is not difficult to find. They have already been told that Kain-na stranger gave to Mahega a present of a bow and arrows, which he hid in the rocks. Wingeneud took them out, and here they are."

As the youth spoke, he dropped the blanket that had been thrown over his left arm and shoulder, holding up to the council the bow and arrows, which all present instantly recognized as being made and ornamented by the Blackfeet.

"Are the warriors yet convinced," continued the youth, raising his voice, "or do they wish for more? If they do, let them seize the Washawhe wolf, they will find in his belt—"

He was not allowed to finish the sentence; the storm that had long been brooding now burst in all its fury. Mahega, driven to desperation by the damning evidence brought against him, and reckless of all save the gratification of his fierce revenge, whirled his iron-pointed mace around his head, and launched it with tremendous force at Wingeneud.

Never had the latter, even for an instant, taken his falcon eye off the Osage; but, so swift was the motion with which the weapon was thrown, that although he sprang lightly aside to avoid it, the spike head grazed and laid open his cheek, whence it glanced off, and striking an unlucky Crow who stood behind him, felled him, with a broken arm, to the ground. Even in the act of stooping to escape the mace, Wingeneud fitted an arrow into the Black-foot bow which he held in his hand; and, rising quick as thought, let it fly at his gigantic adversary with so true an aim, that it pierced the windpipe, and the point came out at the back of his neck, close to the spine. While the Osage, half strangled and paralysed, tugged ineffectually at the fatal shaft, Wingeneud leaped upon him with the bound of a tiger, and uttering aloud the war-cry of the Lenape, buried his knife in the heart of his foe. With one convulsive groan the dying Osage fell heavily to the earth, and, ere the bystanders had recovered from their astonishment, his blood-stained scalp hung at the belt of the victorious Delaware.—C. Murry's Prairie Bird.

FALLING IN LOVE.

It may possibly be becoming for ladies to fall in love only once in their lives, namely, with the happy individual on whom their hands are bestowed; it may, I say, be possibly becoming and virtuous in them to bring virgin hearts to St. George's, Hanover-square; and it is certain that the jealous, greedy, selfish, sultan, Man, would so confine their affections, if he could, nor allow them to think and feel until such time as he chooses to select them as objects of his favor.—But, for his own part, man, the whiskered lord and master, is by no means so squeamish as every man of tolerable sensibilities will aver who reads this, and will take the trouble of computing how many times, from his earliest youth up to the perusal of this sentence, he has given way to the tender passion. Can any man lay his hand on his waistcoat and conscientiously say, "Until I saw the present Mrs. Jones, I never was in love in my life!" Can any man say so? He is a poor creature if he can; and I make no doubt he has had forty first-loves since he began to be capable of admiring at all. As for the ladies,—them, of course, I put out of the question,—they are fresh no doubt; they never fall in love until mamma tells them that Mr. So-and-So is an amiable young man, and in every way eligible; they never flirt with Captain Smith at a ball, and sigh as they lie at home in bed and think what a charming, dashing fellow he is; they never hear the young curate read his sermon so sweetly, and think how pale and interesting he looks, and how lonely he must feel in his curacy house, and what a noble work it would be to share the solitude, and soothe the pains, and listen to the delightful doctrine of so excellent a man; they never think of attaching themselves to any mortal except their brother, until he brings home a young friend from college, and says, "Mary, Tom Atkison admires you hugely, and is heir to two thousand a year!" They never begin the attack, as I have heard; but their young hearts wait like so many fortresses, to be attacked and carried after a proper period of siege—by blockade, or by bribery, or by capitulation, or by fiery escalade.—Fraser's Magazine.

TRUE INSPIRATION.—We have seen a great many affectations about the feelings inspired by travelling through the "Holy Land;" but we have never seen any thing more beautiful or full of sacred feelings than the following from the painter, Wilkie's life:

"When I went," says Collins, the artist, to bid Sir David Wilkie farewell, a day or two before he left home for his last journey, I found him in high spirits, enlarging, with all his high enthusiasm, on the immense advantage he might derive from painting upon holy land, on the very ground on which the event he was about to embody had actually occurred. To make a study at Bethlehem from some young female and child, seemed to me one great incentive to his journey. I asked him if he had any guide book. He said 'Yes, and the very best;' and then unlocking his travelling box, he showed me a pocket Bible. I never saw him again; but the Bible throughout Judea was, I am assured, his best and only hand-book."

DUELING.—Two mosquitoes one morning met on a leaf in a garden. Both were filled with the blood drawn from their last nocturnal depredations. They were silent and "dumpy," cross and savage. One of them ran out his sting, and pointed it towards the first mosquito. This was considered an insult. And so the offended mosquito steps up to the other and says, "Did you turn up your sting at me?" The answer was, "I ran out my sting; you can apply it as you choose." Answer, "Sir, your remark savors of rascality." "Hah!" exclaimed the other, "a downright insult! No gentlemanly mosquito will submit to such treatment without demanding satisfaction! Draw, villain, and defend yourself!" They rushed together, and, unning one another through the body, died honorable deaths.

The following from one of the old British poets is exquisite. It is addressed to a lady upon whose bosom a flake of snow fell and melted:

The envious snow comes down in haste,
To prove thy breast less fair,
But grieves to see itself surpassed,
And melts into a tear."

"I wish you had been Eve," said an urchin to an old maid who was proverbial for her meanness.

"Why so?"
"Because," said he, "you would have eaten all the apple instead of dividing with Adam?"

"My wife," said a critic, "is the most even tempered woman I ever saw; she is always a mad."
